To preserve the richness of color or delicacy of tint of your summer dresses, make suds of hot water and Ivory Soap, allow to cool until lukewarm, then wash your dresses in the solution. Ordinary soaps contain too much alkali, which in a short time bleaches the color and destroys its beauty. Prof. Silliman, of Yale College, says, "The Ivory Soap can not injure the most delicate fabric."
A WORD OF WARNING.
There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

ONE LOVE OF HIS LIFE.

An old gentleman, leaning forward with his hands clasped over a gold headed cane, was seated in a summer house situated upon the grounds of a hotel at a fashionable watering place. He was in a corner hidden by drooping vines, and his face expressed deep and apparently painful thought. The refrain of his sad musing was:

"Only one person in the whole world to love me, and I shall lose even that love now!"

On the other side of the summer house, divided from the side the old gentleman occupied by a rustic partition, two ladies young and fair, rustled in, and taking out some fancy work, settled down for a chat.

One was tall and dressed in a pretty costume, that was at once youthful and matronly; the other was petite, blonde, and not more than eighteen. Mrs Courtland spoke first.

"Embroidery, Alice?" she said. "A handkerchief corner. For your trousseau?"

"Yes," and the sweet voice faltered, while a burning blush crimsoned the fair cheek. "Is it not pretty?"

"Very. I want to talk about your prospects, child. Your aunt Marcia tells me you are making a splendid match."

"Did she? I think so, Blanche. Malcolm is so noble and good and a true Christian!"

"But your aunt tells me he is the favorite nephew of the great oil merchant, Hiram Bates, whose wealth is something enormous. You have only to help him play his cards well, and he will probably be heir to a magnificent fortune. But what ails you? You look as if I was telling you a piece of news."

"I think aunt Marcia has been misinformed, that is all."

"Then he is not Hiram Bates' nephew?

"I never heard him speak of a rich uncle, and I am quite sure he has no hope of inheriting money. He has a good salary, and my little fortune will buy and furnish a small house, so we can make a comfortable, and, I hope, a happy home."

"Did he never speak to you of his uncle?"

"Not of a rich uncle. He has told me of a lame uncle, his mother's brother, who has been very kind to him, given him his education and a start in business. He always talks of him with the deepest love and pity."

"Pity!"

"He suffers tortures from the effects of a fall that has lamed him for life and often causes him weeks of agonizing pain. Malcolm tells me with tears in his eyes of his fear of losing this dearest friend and kind uncle, and I think he hopes I may be useful sometimes in nursing him."

"I wonder if it is the same?"

The old man leaning upon the cane was thinking:

"Can it be true? Does Malcolm think so little of my money, that will be his, that he has never even mentioned it to his promised wife! Can it be that I shall gain a loving, tender niece, instead of losing my nephew, when Malcolm marries.

Loving his nephew so deeply, Hiram Bates had felt a keen pain at the news of his betrothal. He had never seen Alice Hunter, but he knew she had been brought up in a circle of fashion and was the orphan niece of one of society's gayest votaries, Mrs. Marcia Haydon. He ascertained by inquiry that the young girl had inherited $10,000 from her father and that her winters were spent with her aunt Marcia, her summers with a maiden sister of her father. She was quite a belle, though only in society one season, pretty and accomplished, and the old man groaned in spirit over his nephew's choice.

A belle, and with a head full of fashionable frivolity, he was convinced that the girl had been won by the prospect of Malcolm's heirship to his own fortune. He had seen in the future his nephew estranged from him by the influence of a dressy, empty headed woman, or, still more appalling, his niece to be making false protestations of affection, with a hope of winning golden favors.

While he mused upon the conversation he had overheard, the silvery voices of his young neighbors still sounding beside him, there was a sudden crash, something struck him upon the head and he lost consciousness.

Cries from the summer house, from groups of people collected in the grounds, brought a party of men speedily to the spot. The rotten posts supporting the roof upon one side had given away and the side and roof had fallen in. Mrs. Courtland and Miss Hunter were buried under the fallen timbers, the doorway being completely blockaded, but were uninjured. Not so the old gentleman, who had been their unsuspected listener. He was taken out pallid and senseless.

Nobody knew him. He had come by the morning train, had taken breakfast, but no room, and asked the hour for the return train. A surgeon summoned as speedily as possible announced a broken arm and injury to the head, making a likelihood of a long, tedious illness. There was some animated discussion, some suggestions of hospital, a search through the pockets of the unconscious victim, resulting in the discovery of a small sum of money, but no letters, papers or cards, and finally a desertion of one and another, each going his or her way, with the comforting reflection:

"It is none of my business."

But when they had all deserted the injured man the surgeon, still busy binding up his arm as he lay upon a bench brought from the ruined summer house, felt a light touch on his hand, and looked up, to see a little figure in mourning, with a sweet face, very pale.

"Can I help you?" Alice Hunter asked.

"No, child, not now."

"What will they do with him?"

"I suppose he must go to a New York hospital."

"But the ride—the journey."

"Will cause great additional suffering, perhaps result in death."

"Doctor, will they keep him here if he is paid for?"

"Certainly; but there is not money enough about him to pay his board a week."

"I will pay it!"

"You!"

"Yes; I will not let him die for want of money I have. He"—and her lips quivered—"he looks like my dear father who is dead!"

"H'm—yes. Here comes the fellows to carry him to the station. I think I will have him taken to the cottage where I board. It will cost less and be more quiet."

Mrs. Courtland declared Alice was outraging the proprieties most dreadfully when the young girl went to the cottage and offered her services as nurse to the doctor; but Aunt Sophie silenced comment by moving her belongings from the hotel to the quiet boarding house, and the doctor found he had a valuable assistant.

Alice explained in her quiet, low voice that her father was ill for nine months before he died, and she was his nurse. This accounted for the noiseless woolen dresses, the velvet shod feet, the quick eye and ready hand, and when the sufferer recovered consciousness, the gentle voice and tact that quieted him in paroxysms of pain and fever. Aunt Sophy was too much of an invalid herself to help, but she sat beside the bed while Alice moved to and fro, made dainty soups and tempting dishes, and performed all nursing duties.

The invalid had one long talk with the doctor and then submitted to the gentle ministration of the two women, only insisting upon a man the doctor provided being with him at night and within call.

The season was over, and only these three remained of the summer boarders at the little cottage, when one cool October day the sick man, now fast recovering, called Alice to him.

"I shall soon be well again," he said, regretfully.

"Yes," she answered, cheerily, "very soon."

"I shall miss my nurse."

"And I my patient, but I am glad you are recovering. We were afraid at one time there would be a more painful parting."

"You mean I was in danger of dying. Why should that be painful. I am old."

She made no answer, looking sorrowfully into his uplifted eyes.

"And a burden upon you, the doctor tells me. Why did you make yourself responsible for a stranger?"

The fair face flushed, the soft eyes were dewy with feeling as Alice said softly:

"Because you are old and seemed poor and friendless. I was glad it was in my power to aid you. Do not think it was at any great cost," she added, with a generous desire to lighten the burden of obligation. "I have some money lying idle."

"For the wedding day perhaps. Well, child, you might have poorer jewels to deck your bridal than an old man's tears of gratitude and love. I am getting well and shall soon leave you; will you give me a keepsake?"

The girl loosened a little locket from a chain round her throat, cut off one of her golden curls and put in the place of some hair she took out, and laid the trinket in the old man's hand.

"With my love," she said softly.

"Ah child," he sighed, "an old man, sick and feeble, wins little love."

"Yet," she said, earnestly, "you must believe that I have nursed you since you were conscious, with affection. My own father is gone, but if ever you want a daughter's care or affection, believe me I will gladly come to you, if possible."

Three days later the little cottage was deserted. Aunt Sophy and Alice returned to their home to make up for lost time in dress making and sewing, and Alice cheerfully paid out of her small patrimony for the board and expenses of her venerable patient.

She little guessed how deep an impression her care and tenderness had made upon the heart so long closed against human affection, so distrustful of any advances from his fellow creatures. It was a revelation to him, this active charity to an utter stranger. He had gone to the hotel merely to see Malcom's choice and had purposely left all clew to his identity behind him. He had intended meeting Alice, if possible, unknown and watching her unobserved, but accident had thrown them together in a way he little anticipated. The first use he made of his recovery was to write to his nephew, and Malcom met him at the depot when he returned home.

Knowing nothing of the recent accident, the young man was shocked at the change in his uncle's face.

"You have been ill!" he cried.

"Very ill."

"Why did you not send for me?"

I had even better nursing than yours, Malcolm. Don't ask me any questions now, but tell me about your marriage preparations."

Alice has gone home and will remain until November. Then she comes to Mrs. Haydon's and will buy her house and furniture."

"In November?"

"Yes."

Late in November she came, her trunks full of Aunt Sophy's daintiest stitching, and Aunt Marcia gave her cordial greeting. A grand wedding was the display upon which this lady had set her heart, and Alice shrank a little at the comments upon the rich uncle, and her own good fortune in the "first rate match."

But just before the wedding day, a little note was brought to Alice, by a gorgeous footman, who was driving to her aunt's behind a private carriage. The note was from Malcolm, and begged her to come to him in the carriage.

Wondering, but obedient, Alice was speedily ready, and was driven to a handsome stone house, where the door was opened to usher her into a stylish drawing room, where a gentleman awaited her, and Malcolm advancing said:

"My uncle Hiram, Alice."

Kindly blue eyes looked into her own, withered hands were extended, and a voice she knew well, said:

"We are old friends, Malcolm. Are we not, Alice?"

Then, before she could answer, the old man continued:

"I have thought, Alice, that it was unkind to have my nephew wait for my death before sharing of my wealth. I have borne a curse of distrust in my heart for many years, thinking my money won me all the affection, save Malcolm's, that was offered me. But though you are well content to wed the young clerk, and put your own patrimony into his home, you must not refuse my heir, who has accepted from me an income that makes him independent, and this home."

"My love for Malcolm can bear riches or poverty," was the answer, but, sir, our home needs you. You will come will you not, to the children, who will try to make your life happy by loving care? Long before I knew you, Malcolm told me he hoped, when he had a home, to win you to live in it. Will you let me, too, beg of you to come to us."

"Gladly, child, gladly!" the old man said.

So, where the rich lonely man had feared to lose the one love of his life, he gained another tenderer, sweeter love, to brighten his declining years by a daughter's devotion and affection.

Prohibition Discussion.

Editors Columbian.

Dear Sirs: By your kindness I would like to say a few words in reply to the gentleman from Millville, W. B. German, who it appears was trying to reply to my former article. He admits the Bible says: be ye "temperate" in all things, but says that I try to make it appear that to be temperate a man must drink a little, and further says that I must remember that all things do not relate merely to drinking. Who said it did? Not I. I quoted Paul, be ye temperate in all things. Does drinking embrace all things? preposterous reasoning! He says further that taking for granted that the gentleman's doctrine be true. "I thank God it is not my doctrine the gentleman is ridiculing but the doctrine of the Lord Jesus Christ." We of course will be compelled to apply it to all the vices of this world, and to be temperate according to his doctrine, "which I repeat is not my doctrine" a man must drink a little, swear a little, lie a little, steal a little etc. In the first place he is making light of the Holy Spirit, says we will have to lie, steal, and swear a little in order to be temperate. Now sir, if that is not preverting the scriptures, misconstruing the words of God, then language fails to have any meaning. You know if you are a Bible student that the Holy Spirit never taught mankind to do wrong, but we are to be temperate in all things allowable. No party ever had such a hold on me that to defend its dogmas I would abuse the Holy Spirit. W. B. G. says, "the Liquor Traffic causes the building of jails, workhouses, insane asylums, poorhouses and penitentiaries. I deny the assertion. There is manifold causes outside of liquor that helps build and fill those edifices. He further says that, prohibition causes the building of school houses, churches, colleges and seminaries. Where was he educated? Why bless your soul Pennsylvania never had prohibition, and she can boast of her institutions of learning, her children are provided with schools half of the year, her churches adorn almost every hill and dale of this great commonwealth. Tell me that prohibition has caused all this? Nay verily, hitherto it has been but a handful of the great majority. I will tell you what built up this country and made it blossom as the rose. The refining influence of christianity. The more the people understand and obey it the better.

He asks the question, what is personal liberty. He says it gives the liquor seller the liberty to make earth hell, to blot out the hope of heaven, to make the Lord's day a drunken revelry, to turn churches into dramshops etc. Now, Mr. German, you know better, the liquor dealers are selling under strict laws and if guilty of what you charge them with why don't you have them arrested. The laws that we have now are adequate to protect all our citizens if they are properly executed. We have just as binding a law against drunkenness as we have for other crimes. We have all the laws to regulate society that is needed. Anything more would be arbitrary and unjust. No government can control the appetites of its subjects only through oppression and tyranny. No patriot loves his country with a truer devotion than I. We have the free'st the happiest and the best governed people on earth, why encroach upon their liberties now. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, and in the words of the greatest orator of his day Patrick Henry, give me liberty or give me death.

Yours Truly.

Chemist's Idea of Wine.

We have heard a great deal of the superior excellence of Speer's N. J. Wine, and of its being adopted in European hospitals in reference to their own wines. The most scientific men of this country and liquor-essayers appointed by state government, pronounce it a most valuable article for sickness. We can not write more on this subject, publish the following card, which speaks for itself:

Portland, Feb. 1.

The undersigned, having become practically acquainted with the Wine produced by Alfred Speer of New Jersey, would say that he considers it a superior article, and far preferable to the quality of port wine generally furnished in this market.

A Summary of the Bills Passed and Signed and Those Still Waiting.

The Legislature which adjourned last week sine die has been a hard working body. While it may be true that few bills of any great importance to the State at large have been enacted into laws, yet at the same time the members have worked hard, both in committee and at the session of the Legislature.

Some of the most important measures before the Legislature failed on account of the early adjournment. Among these may be mentioned the Ballot Reform bill, and the Granger's Tax bill and the Medical Examiners' bill. The Grangers wanted to prohibit beef being imported into the State, but failed. Several of the bills advocated by the laboring organizations also failed in the closing hours of the session. The attempts to amend the Brooks law proved futile, although the Quigley bill came within one vote of passing the Senate, and only failed because General Gobin did not vote loud enough for the clerk to hear him.

Altogether 365 bills have been sent to the Governor from both Houses for his approval. A number of these have been already approved, and the Governor has thirty days more in which to study and sign or reject the measures still awaiting his signature.

Among the bills of general interest that have thus far been signed by Gov. Beaver are the following: Preventing the unlawful use of the badge of the Loyal Legion, Grand Army or Veteran Union; prescribing the time and manner of submitting the proposed Prohibitory and Polltax amendments to the Constitution to the people; repealing the Fence law of 1800 (this was the only Fence law on the statute books); providing for the appointment of a board of directors for the nautical schoolship at Philadelphia; increasing the number of building inspectors in Philadelphia from three to seven; defining the rights and regulating the use of bicycles and tricycles, giving them the same rights as a man with a horse and carriage; making the first Monday of September a legal holiday to be known as Labor Day; regulating the taking or purchasing of ground for school purposes in cities of the first class; regulating the renewal and extension of charters of State banks; to constitute a naval battalion of the National Guard; to prevent and punish the wrongful use, detention or misappropriation of milk cans or butter tubs and market boxes from their owners; compelling transient retail merchants to take out a license before they do business in the State; prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to persons under the age of 16; an act to permit persons to build sidewalks along public highways and prohibiting riding and driving on the same; prohibiting any life insurance company or its agents doing business in the State from discriminating in favor of individuals; to provide transportation for the Pennsylvania soldiers who participated in the Battle of Gettysburg, to and from the battlefield on Memorial Day; prohibiting the printing or circulating of publications offering for sale counterfeit coin, paper money et al.; forbidding the refilling and dealing in registered bottles by others than the owners thereof without written permission from the owners; to divide the cities of the State into three classes, with respect to their population; providing for the incorporation and regulation of electric light, heat and power companies.

These bills are in the hands of the Governor awaiting his signature: An act providing for the incorporation and government of cities of the third class, known as the Municipal bill; empowering chief clerks of county controllers to administer oaths; providing for the continuance of the education and maintenance of the soldiers' orphans, and appointing a commission to care for them; to punish bribery at special election on June 18; to provide for the incorporation and regulation of savings banks and institutions without capital stock; authorizing the Fairmount Park Commissioners to build a drive where horses can be speeded; authorizing the chartering of associations of employees and providing for the punishment of fraud; for the incorporation and regulation of Young Men's Christian Associations; to appropriate $200,000 for the improvement of the Philadelphia harbor; to provide for incorporation and government of street railway companies, to regulate the employment and to provide for the safety of women and children in mercantile industries and manufacturing establishments, and to provide for the appointment of inspectors; the General Revenue bill; for the removal of the House of Refuge from Philadelphia to Delaware county; prescribing the amount stock and bonds that may be issued by railway companies; to increase the salary of every judge in the State $1000 per annum; to aid in the establishment of a free war library and museum of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion in Philadelphia; a supplement to the Corporation act of 1874 amending section 24 in order to validate the charters of title insurance companies organized since the passage of that bill; authorizing the appointment of police matrons in cities of first and second classes; to authorize factory mutual insurance companies to do business in this State; and defining the offense and stipulating the punishment for insolvent bankers or an officer of a bank, national, State or private, who receives deposits with a knowledge of the insolvency of the institution.

The Governor has also approved the joint resolution submitting to vote of the people the Prohibitory and Suffrage amendments to the Constitution, and the concurrent resolution providing for a survey of a route for a ship canal to connect the waters of Lake Erie with the Ohio River.

The following resolutions are still awaiting his aproval: Authorizing the appointment of a commission to prepare a uniform revenue law; for a commission to revise and consolidate the road laws; for a commission to investigate the charitable and correction system of the commonwealth and the Normal Schools.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, May 13, 1889

Harrison's religious following will probably be greatly shocked to learn that the truly good and pious Benjamin has been indulging in a sinful Sunday excursion. But such is the fact. Pious Benny left Washington Saturday morning on board of the Government vessel Despatch and the sailing masters orders were to keep going night and day until the return to Washington to-night. And to make matters worse he has led off with him such innocents as Secretary Windom, who has not yet entirely recovered from the effects of his own indulgence at the late New York celebration, Secretary Rusk, who by the way, needs salt air very much since he was "fresh" enough to think that wielding a scythe for five minutes in the presence of newspaper correspondents was sufficient to popularize him with the Agriculturists and working people of the country, and lastly but by no means least, Joe Hawley, who although born in the state of North Carolina, can and does constantly give the trickiest citizens of the state which he represents in the United States Senate—Connecticut—points in all manner of things. Mrs. Harrison was along, but so also were the two McKee children, who probably fully occupied her time leaving the four—mark the number—pious gentlemen to indulge in their favorite game to as great an extent as they may wish. What was done will probably never be known as neither of the four concerned are likely to tell any tales.

Chief Justice Fuller finding the residence in the suburbs which he now occupies under lease to be too far from the capitol for him to walk to and from the Supreme Cour room in the Capitol, has purchased one of the most desirable private houses in this city, located in its centre. The price paid was $100,000 cash.

Mr. Palmer the new Public Printer took charge of the Government printing office this morning. Mr. Benedict, the retiring Public Printer has not been a popular official, no man can be, in that office, who properly looks out for the interest of the Government, but he has nevertheless been one of the very best Public Printers we have ever had. There has been less waste and more work turned out for the amount paid than was ever before known in the history of the office.

At last the colored man and brother has captured a Presidential appointment. The lucky man was Rev. J. M. Townsend of Richmond, Indiana, and the office was recorder of the General Land office not a big office by any means, but just now the race is extremely thankful for any thing it can get.

Corporal Tanner is getting to imagine himself the "biggest" man connected with the administration. Some of his personal friends have already begun to talk of him as a Presidential candidate. If less than two months at the head of the pension bureau has had this much effect, what may be expected in four years?

The $190,000,000 in the United States treasury has all gos to be counted in order that Mr. Hyatt the retiring Treasurer may take the receipt of the new Treasurer, Mr. Huston, for the same. The count began to-day and is expected to last something like three months. Nearly four-fifths of the money consists of standard silver dollars.

The appointment of Ex-Governor Thompson of South Carolina as the democratic and Mr. Theodore Roosevelt of New York, and the second republican member of the Civil Service Commission, makes the board complete for the first time in several months. One of the first things that the Commissioner intends to do is to contest the recent decision of the Interior department that appointments in the Census bureaus would be made without civil-service examinations.

Mr. Wanamaker is opposed to one cent postage. He seems to have already become a victim to the fever that Postmaster Generals always get soon after their appointments and seldom ever get rid of. That is the absurd desire to make the Post office department self sustaining.

It's dollars to ginger cakes that some New Hampshire paper will get in its work early in the administration, on the New Public Printer. My reason for thinking so is that little "Billy" Chandeller helped Palmer fix up his bond and also went on it himself. Now Chandeller never does anything for nothing, and his long experience in monufacturing Government contracts in which he has been silently interested causes me to believe that in this case he will stick to the same line of tactics that have made him a rich man.

The next Congress will have sixteen contested election cases to determine, thirteen of them from the south. The papers in several cases are now at the Government printing office being put in type.

The Mind Reader Dead.

Washington Irving Bishop, who became famous in this country and in Europe by his extraordinary, and to many people inexplicable, mind-reading performances, died at noon Monday at the Lambs Club, No. 34 West Twenty-sixth street N. Y. The circumstances attending his death were as singular as, and in perfect keeping with, his remarkable career, for it was the effort to perform a wonderful feat of thought-reading which caused the cataleptic fit that ultimately pro ed fatal.

Friday last Mr. Bishop came to New York from Philadelphia to sign a contract with his manager, Mr. Ritchie, and was stopping at the Hoffman House. On Sunday night the members of the Lambs Club gave one of their suppers and entertainments. Mr. Bishop seemed to be in excellent spirits and apparently enjoyed the affair very much. When Mr. Clay Greene, the Secretary of the club, called upon him to contribute to the amusement of the evening Bishop readily consented, and performed his famous dagger trick.

The hearty applause that greeted this performance led him to announce another and more difficult one, that of finding a word in a book which was to be previously selected by one of the gentlemen present. The mental effort attending this performance proved too great, for he suddenly fell to the floor in a state very like a cataleptic fit, the incident causing considerable confusion among the festive party. Just then Dr. A. Irwine, of No. 14 West Twenty-ninth street, who is a member of the club, happened to come in and he took the patient in charge. His prompt use of stimulants soon brought Mr. Bishop around when, to the amazement of all who were in the room, he announced his intention of performing the feat previously undertaken.

Dr. Irwine protested against the attempt and all the gentlemen endeavored to dissuade him, to no purpose, however, for even the physician's allusion to the danger of another attack, failed to shake Bishop. "Why" said he, "I am not affraid of these fits, for I've had over a dozen of them, and I'm alive yet. But I intend to do the feat even if it kills me, just to show all that I can do it."

Dr. Irwine and Mr. Greene then decended to the basement, and among a lot of old account books picked out the minute book of the club and on page 87 selected the word "Townsend," afterwards secreting the book in a disused drawer among some discarded rubbish.

On returning to the room where Bishop was sitting Dr. Irwine again endeavored to dissuade him from proceeding in what he gravely informed him was a very dangerous experiment. But Bishop for the second time remarked han he would accomplish the feat even if it killed him, and insisted that he be immediately blindfolded. When the handkerchief had been tied over his eyes he was led downstairs, his right hand being clasped on Mr. Greene's wrist. In due time he discovered the room, then the drawer and the book, and on the leaves of the latter being rapidly turned over by him, he stopped at the right one and then ran over it with a pencil. Suddenly he seemed to make a private mark, and then nervously requested that the book be brought upstairs.

He had no sooner entered the room where the members were assembled than he pulled a bandage from his eyes and exclaimed. "Quick! quick, give me a bit of paper!" and on receiving it he dashed off "Dnesnwot," that being the selected word written backward, so that it could be read in a mirror. He had performed the feat but scarcely had he written the word when he was again seized by the cataleptic fit, from which he never recovered.

The Fence Law.

Probably no other act passed at the recent session of the Legislature is so important to the farmers of the state as the act repealing the Fence law. This old statute, passed in 1700, made all persons liable in damages for injuries done to them to stray cattle, sheep or hogs in driving them from their premises, provided the premises were not protected by a high and close fence as prescribed by law. Now there is no need of the fence, the owner of the land is not responsible for injuries done to trespassing cattle in driving them off his grounds. Whether he can obtain damages for the mischief done by the trespassing cattle is not so clear.

If the purpose of the Legislature was to abolish the necessity for fences it would have accomplished this object more certainly and saved litigation by making it a misdemeanor for the owner of cattle or stock to suffer them to run at large. It is not everyone, even though injured by trespassing cattle, who cares to maim or kill them simply to punish their owners for not keeping them in their fields. The repeal of the Fence law has no effect upon the railroad companies in the state at large, because they were not bound to fence their tracks nor liable to the owners of cattle killed thereon, while the fence law still stood. By a special act, applicable to Warren Venango, McKean, Bradford, and perhaps some other counties, railroads are required to erect fences and cattle guards or pay for cattle injured for want of them. These special laws remain operative, in spite of the repeal of the general Fence law.

As the law now stands it appears that everyone in the rural districts may suffer his cattle, sheep and horses to roam at large and do what damage they please, subject only to the risk that some irate neighbor who finds them tramping down his wheat may injure them, and in a few counties, if the stray cattle derail a locomotive and are crushed in the act, their owner may recover their full value from the railroad company.—Press.

Sugarloaf.

Fishing season is in its brightest days. Mr. Gardner of Bloomsburg, tried his skill as a fisherman on Tuesday 14th inst, and succeeded in capturing several fine trout.

Mr. Jno. Klinger, who fell and injured himself on Saturday 11th, is convalesing slowly.

Mr. Kaufman of Lancaster, a prohibition lecturer, addressed a meeting of 49 persons at the Brandon M. E. Church, Tuesday evening 14th inst. His arguments were based upon facts, but great many of his exclamations were unfounded and baseless. The thinness of the audience was somewhat of a surprise to many, for it was generally conceded that more voters were in favor of prohibition. The meeting was opened by singing Crown Him Lord of All, after which Mr. A. L. Fritz led in prayer. After prayer Mr. Kaufman was introduced, who made a few very bold and rigid exclamations. One most remarkable was that whosoever cast their vote on the 18th day of June for license, was an accomplice in crime and would have to suffer punishment in the face of God.

SPECIAL.

Died For Science's Sake.

Dr. Frank R. Vincent of Clifton Springs N. Y., met with a peculiar death Sunday morning last.

For some time past Dr. Vincent had been experimenting with an instrument known as "the Sayre suspension apparatus."

It consists of a wooden tripod about eight feet high, from which is suspended by means of compound pulleys an iron cross-bar. From this cross-bar straps descend, which support the patient by the chin and back of the head. Arm straps are also added when the patient, instead of raising himself, is pulled up by an assistant.

The instrument, as originally devised, was used for the suspension of patients while plaster jackets were applied to the spine, but during the past few months, since the experiments of the celebrated Pro. Charcot, of Paris, have been made known, the apparatus has been extensively used in the United States for the treatment by suspension of various organic and functional spinal complaints and derangements of the nervous system.

On Sunday morning Dr. Vincent rose early, as was his custom, and arranged his linen for the day with minute care. Then he went to the bath room and took his bath, telling an attendant that he was going to try the tripod suspension on himself to note its effects. He had also told two of his patients who testified before the Coroner's jury that he was going to make such a test the first opportunity he might have.

After his bath he was particularly cheerful and happy. He wrapped his bath robe about him, and ran lightly up one flight of stairs to his office, where he had been using the Sayre instrument on one or two patients.

From this point it is all surmise. It is supposed that the doctor adjusted the belt under or around his chin, where it was loosely buckled. Then he lowered himself, and, losing his hold of the rope, it flew up to the apex of the machine beyond his reach, while the pad instead of resting on his chin, drew up owing to his weight over his mouth and nostrils. He had a full beard, and it is supposed that this also tended to render him insensible by helping to suffocate him. Everything in the arrangement of the machine indicated that this must have been the cause of his death.

He leaves a wife and two sons. He was regarded as a very able physician and skillful surgeon, and was very popular among his acquaintances. He was thirty-seven years of age. The remains will be taken to Lewisburg, Pa., for interment.

Items.

Joseph Cook's estimaton is that, at the present increase, in 1910 the population of the United States will number 100,000,000, that in the year 2000 there will be 400,000,000.

Great progress is being made in dentistry for animals. Barnum's hippopotamus lately sat and had a bad tooth extracted without a growl, and the same operation is now practiced on lions and tigers. When the wild beasts are all provided with false teeth we propose to interview a few of them in their cages.

The counting of $178,394,763.45 in cash in the vaults of the Sub-Treasury was completed Saturday last and the amount found to be correct. Assistant Treasurer Ellis can now give his receipt and shoulder the responsibility of taking care of the money. But in giving this receipt Mr. Ellis destroys the independence of his Utica newspaper and joins the army of editors with padlocked mouths.

With Wanamaker collecting money to help the Prohibition cause in Pennsylvania and Quay raising boodle to help defeat the proposed amendment in that state, the republican party maintains its balance on this question in true rope-walker style. With the pious John to look after what the Tribune once called "Sunday school politics," and the wicked Matthew to keep the "rum power" satisfied, the party of high old moral ideas expects to steer clear of the temperance rocks.

Secret Service officers have been notified to keep a sharp lookout for a bogus five dollar bill which is at present being extensively circulated in and around Pittsburg. It is excellent imitation of the genuine article. The size is precisely the same, and the coloring is so good as to demand the service of an expert in distinguishing it from the genuine note. It can be readily detected, however, by noticing the official seal, which is much smaller than that on a good bill and shows up more conspicuously. There is also an absence of silk threads and an imitation of them is printed on the bills.

During the storm last Saturday afternoon in Berks County sixty barns, farm-houses and dwellings were unroofed or partly blown down by the storm, entailing a loss of $80,000. In the northern end of the county orchards were entirely denuded trees. The loss to the fruit crop is estimated at $20,000. In Schuylkill County the loss on buildings is $40,000. Some of the country roads are impassable, being full of broken trees. Near the well-known "yellow house" in this county Thomas Snyder was riding a mule. He was lifted off by the wind and thrown over a fence twenty feet. Near Linfield Thomas Hughes was thrown from a passenger car and hurled into a field. A little girl was lifted up by the wind at Sixth and Bingaman streets, in Reading, and carried about one hundred feet. She was not hurt.

The employes of the Railway Mail Service number 5,300. About one-third of this number are republicans appointed since the 4th of March, and a small number are republicans found in the service by the Cleveland administration and overlooked in the general slaughter which followed Cleveland's inauguration, the rest are democ a s May 1, the entire service passed under the control of the Civil Service Commission and in future when vacancies occur they will be filled from names certified by that body. Civil Service Commissioner Lyman says that the Commission has already on file more than 2000 applicants for examination, from parties desirous of receiving appointments in the service and that he anticipates no trouble whatever in filling any requisition that Superintendent Bell of the Railway Mail Service may make on him for clerks.

FREDERICK T. ROBERTS, M. D, Examiner in Medicine in the Royal College of Surgeons, London Eng., in speaking of Bright's Disease, says: "Death is usually hastened by uric acid poisoning, serious inflammation, bronchitis, pneumonia, dropsy, or by apoplexy." Warner's Safe Cure is a guarantee against fatality from these terrible maladies, because it cures the cause (diseased kidneys), and puts the kidneys in a healthy condition, enabling them to expel the poison or waste matter from the system.

Sentenced to Suffer Death by Electricity.

Buffalo, N. Y. May 14.—Wm. Kemmler, for the murder of his paramour Mrs. Tillie Ziegler, on March 29 last, was this morning sentenced to die by electricity.

This was the first sentence under the new law since its enactment and that fact drew a large crowd of curious people and members of the bar to Judge Childs' court this morning.

Kemmler was brought in and asked what he had to say.

He looked fixedly at the Judge with a troubled, anxious look upon his face and replied quietly, "nothing."

The Judge then proceeded to pass sentence.

He said the trial had been fair and impartial; that the evidence showed that Kemmler deliberately planned and executed the murder, and the verdict was satisfactory and entirely just.

The form of the sentence was as follows:

"The sentence is, that for the crime of murder, of which you stand convicted, that within the week commencing Monday June 24, 1889, within the walls of Auburn State's prison, or within the yard or enclosure thereof, you suffer the death punishment by being executed by electricity, and that you be removed to and be kept in confinement in Auburn State's prison until that time. May God have mercy on your soul."

Kemmler exhibited but little emotion and walked steadily out of the court room with the officers on his way back to jail.

Important to Railroad Men.

A. E. Smith has been for forty-nine years road master on the Boston and Maine system, and is now residing at Great Falls, N. H. He says trackmen, brakemen, firemen, engineers and conductors, as well as baggage masters and expressmen, are subject to kidney disease above all others. All, therefore, will be interested in the statement of his experience. "I have used Brown's Sarsaparilla for kidney and liver troubles, and can truly say it has done more for me than all the doctors I ever employed, and I have had occasion to require the services of the best physicians in the State. My wife also has been greatly benefited by its use.

Road Master B. & M. R. R."

The kidneys have been labored hard all winter as the pores of the skin have been closed, but now the springtime has come, and they need, some aid. Maybe you have that pain across the back; that tired feeling; those drawing down pains. If so, you can get immediate relief by following the example of Mr. Smith and his wife, and use that never failing and grand corrector for the kidneys, liver and blood,

ORDINANCE NO. 44.

An Ordinance, to permit The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company to occupy a portion of Seventh street for railroad purposes.

WHEREAS, The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, as appears by Letters Patent, exhibited, bearing date the twenty-eighth day of January, 1889 became an incorporated company, under articles of Association declaring that; "The road of the company is to be constructed within the corporate limits of the Town of Bloomsburg, from a point near the intersection of the Bloomsburg and Sullivan Railroad Company's tracks with the tracks of the Delaware Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, eastwardly to and upon Seventh street to East street, thence by the most eligible route to and about the furnace of William Neal & Sons, and westwardly therefrom to the canal wharves late of the Bloomsburg Iron Company, and to the place of beginning, and to be of a length of two miles"; and

WHEREAS, The said, The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, has requested permission to locate construct, establish and use a railroad in persuance of the charter of the said company, upon Seventh street; and also a large number of property owners on said Seventh street have requested in behalf of the said Company, the same permission therefore:

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Town Council of the Town of Bloomsburg, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same, that the Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company be, and is hereby permitted to locate, construct, establish and use a railroad, of single track upon Seventh street, from the west side of Market street to the east side of East street, at or about the southwest corner of the property owned by Harman & Hassert, at or near the intersection of said East street with the Berwick road: Provided, that such track shall be laid at the grade of the said Seventh street, and that the said railroad shall be located and constructed to the satisfaction and acceptance of the Engineer and Surveyor of the Town of Bloomsburg, and in such manner as not to obstruct in its maintenance and use said Seventh street, as a public highway, except so much as is actually necessary for the reasonable and proper location, construction, and use of the said railroad.

SECTION 2. That The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company shall locate, construct and maintain the railroad in all its parts at the crossings of streets or other highways, at such grade as shall be fixed by the Town Council, and to the satisfaction and acceptance of the Engineer and Surveyor of the Town of Bloomsburg, so as not to interfere with the use of all such streets and highways as public highways, except so much as is actually necessary for the reasonable and proper location, construction and use of the said railroad.

SECTION 3. That The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company shall so construct the railroad as that Seventh street and all streets and highways upon which it is constructed, or which it crosses, shall be free and clear for public use as public highways and thoroughfares, and by said company shall be so kept and maintained, except so far as the same may be obstructed in the reasonable and proper location, construction and use of the said railroad.

SECTION 4. That the said railroad shall be operated and managed that there shall be no unjust discrimination in freight or charges, and that under just and equitable conditions there shall be afforded opportunity of connection by switches or otherwise with other railroad companies, and individuals owning property or conducting works, along the line thereof.

SECTION 5. That The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, its successors, lessees, or others operating the railroad shall submit to and observe all legal and reasonable municipal regulations which may be at any time made with reference to speed of trains, gates, flagmen, &c.

SECTION 6. That nothing in this ordinance contained shall be construed in any manner to affect the rights of individuals or others as to damages by reason of the location, construction, maintenance and use of the said railroad, and that the said, The Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, its successors, lessees, or others owning or operating the said railroad shall keep the said railroad and structures in good order and condition, and save the Town of Bloomsburg harmless, so far as the said town may be liable therefor, from any responsibility or liability whatever, that may grow out of the location, construction, maintenance and use of the said railroad.

SECTION 7. This ordinance shall not be of force until it shall be certified to the Bloomsburg Belt Railroad Company, and by said company accepted and approved, and such acceptance and approval certified to the Town Council.

Passed at a meeting of the Town Council, held Mar. 15, 1889.

GEORGE A. CLARK, P. M.

At a meeting of the stock holders of the Normal School last week, F. P. Billmeyer, J. M. Clark and Dr. J. Schuyler were reelected trustees for three years, A. Z. Schoch was elected to fill vacancy caused by L. B. Rupert's death, and E. C. Wells, Dr. H. W. McReynolds, I. S. Kuhn and L. A pamphlet has come to us from Chadron Nebraska, setting forth the wealth, growth, population, material recources and advantages of that section. Among the persons mentioned appear the names of several who went from this county. Dr. G. P. Waller is one of the directors of the Chadron Banking Company. Myers and Boone are engaged in the furniture business. William D. Edgar is business manager and assistant editor of the Crawford Weekly Clipper. Ira C. Dietrick is conducting a drug store.

William A Snyder, who finished his apprenticeship in this office, and has been employed by E. B. Yordy at Wilkesbarre since, came down on Saturday to take in Barnum and visit friends. He will leave next week for Tacoma, Washington Territory, where he will join his mother, Mrs. E. D. Hughes. Mr. Hughes has been appointed assistant postmaster at Tacoma, and Mr. Snyder will take a position under him as clerk. We wish him a safe journey and a prosperous future.

The only thing that the COLUMBIAN office had to do with the sale of tickets for Barnum's show was simply to rent the managers a place where tickets could be sold. Two agents and a Pinkerton detective had charge of the sale of tickets, and over 1800 were disposed of at this office. The additional charge of 10 cents was made to cover the expense of room rent, agents salary, &c., as the up town office was opened expressly for the purpose of affording those who wished, to avoid the rush at the ticket wagon.

United States Senator Alfred H. Colquitt Ex-Governor of Georgia, will deliver two addresses in Columbia County this week upon the Prohibitory Amendment; in Bloomsburg on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Opera House, and in Benton on Friday evening. Admission will be free to adults, children will not be admitted. Senator Colquitt's fame as a courageous man, a statesman and an orator, is wide spread as our land. The citizens of the county are to be congratulated upon these opportunities to see and hear him.

The public schools of this place closed last Friday with exercises by the pupils in the Opera House both afternoon and evening. The exercises of the afternoon were given by the pupils of the primary schools and the Opera House was crowded with spectators, who, despite the heat of the day which rendered the air oppressive, listened with interest and applause. In the evening the High School and Grammar School gave an interesting entertainment before a good sized audience. The Bloomsburg Orchestra assisted and rendered several pleasing selections during the evening.

An exchange says the importance of publishing the dissolution notice in case of a change of firm is shown by a case recently decided A note was given for $2,500 by a former member of the firm, and the firm name signed to it. This was discounted at a bank, and the maker of the note appropriated the proceeds to his own use. Being unable to collect when due, the bank sued the firm for the amount. They showed that the maker's connection with the firm had ceased before he made the note, but as they had not published the notice of dissolution previous to that time, as required by law, judgment was rendered against them.

Mrs. Phoebe Wolf died at her home on East street, Wednesday morning about one o'clock. For a number of years she has been suffering with a tumor, which physicians said could not be removed without endangering her life. In latter days the tumor seemed to absorb all the food she would take, and it might be truly said she was starving to death, while apparently taking plenty of nourishment. She was about 61 years of age. Her husband was killed by a falling tree about 38 years ago, and she with her only daughter, Annie, now Mrs. Frymire have resided in Bloomsburg since that time. She was a member of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, and lead an earnest christian life. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 12 o'clock Friday, Rev. J. R. Dimm officiating. The remains will be taken to Mifflinville for interment.

PROF. WM. R. THOMPSON, M. D., of the University of the City of New York says that more adults are carried off in this country, by chronic kidney disease than by any other malady, except consumption, and yet many people look upon a slight kidney difficulty as of little consequence. Others take Warner's Safe Cure and remove any possible danger. When kidney disease becomes chronic, or Bright's Disease, it becomes a very serious matter.

At a meeting a short time ago arrangements were made for a re-union of the Fritz family on June 20th in Hess' Maple Grove, Sugarloaf township. Relatives have been invited, not only from different parts of this state, but from New York, New Jersey and the western states.

No efforts have been spared in the musical management, to make the concert to be given on Friday evening in the Opera House a great success. Read what the clergy said of this entertainment when given in Danville.

Having heard the Danville Choral Union, under the auspices of the Social Committee of the Y. M. C. A. of Danville, Prof. Gomer Thomas, Director, it gives us pleasure to bear testimony to the high order of their music, and the excellency of their entertainment. Their choruses are rousing—their quartetts and solos are pleasingly fine and elevating. The "Union" is composed of some of our best citizens, and are among the highest and best musical talent. We are waiting patiently to hear them again.

I take pleasure in saying that the Concert given by the "Danville Choral Union" under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Social Committee was the best all through I have ever heard.

REV. G. W. STEVENS,
Trinity M. E. Church.

Danville, Pa., May 12th, 1889.

Henry C. Hartman died on Sunday morning last, after a painful illness of several weeks duration. He was born September 18, 1822 in Catawissa, and was a son of Thomas Hartman, and brother of Charles, Benjamin F. Jane, Wellington, William, Daniel, and I. W. Hartman, of whom all but Charles are living.

When young he learned the chairmaking and painting trades, and afterwards clerked in J. K. Sharpless' store at Catawissa. In 1848 he opened a general store in Bloomsburg with his brother I. W. Hartman, and the partnership continued until 1869 when it was dissolved, I. W. continuing the business. In 1874 he opened a carpet store and conducted it until a few months ago, when he sold out to Mr. Keiter. His wife, who was Martha F. McClure, survives him.

The funeral took place at the house on Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Mr. Patterson. The interment was in Rosemont.

The only house to find a full line of Rochester made clothing— best hats made is at the Popular store of D. Lowenberg.

Among the visitors at Barnum's last Saturday was an English tourist, wearing a check suit, a tourist cap, field glass, and the inevitable one eye-glass and cane. He mingled in the crowds everywhere, and asked all sorts of absurd questions, with the broad accent of the English dude. Just before the performance began, he unceremoniously walked into the reserved seats and sat down. An usher demanded his check, but the dude refused either to show his check or leave the seat, whereupon the usher seized him, and rushing him down the seats pitched him head-long over the ropes. The dude was wild with rage, and protested that "you wouldn't dare to do that in England, my boy." He repeated the same act several times, while the audience indulged in expressions of approval or disapproval of the roughness of the usher. "Serves him right." the men said, while the ladies exclaimed, "Oh, what a shame!" Those who were in the secret, and knew that this was only a part of the show, enjoyed the sell immensely. The dude subsequently appeared in the costume and tawny skin of a Moor in the Oriental procession.

On the outskirts of the town of Renova, Pa. lived William McNall, with his family of a wife and four children. When the storm of Saturday last came up he was not at home, and terrorized by the severity of the weather the mother, with her four little ones, whose ages ranged from one month to eight years, sought safety in the cellar. After the storm had subsided neighbors, attracted by the piteous cries of a child, entered the house and going to the cellar found the blackened bodies of the mother and three of the children, while the fourth, the babe of a month, clasped in the arms of its dead mother, was alive and uninjured.

The bodies were huddled together in the middle of the cellar, the little ones clinging to their mother's dress. The doctors have examined the babe and say that it suffered not the slightest injury. During the same storm lightning struck Freyling's jewelry store at St. Mary's, ten miles below Ridgway, and while no one was injured the building was badly torn and the stock much damaged.

An elegant line of summer merino—Balbriggan—underwear just opened at Lowenberg's.

East Benton.

Thanks, Mr. "Occasional" for the compliment in last week's Sentinel and the publicity you have given to it. It is premature to introduce a new issue. But upon your own suggestion I will ask you whether the good ladies of our land "Woman" are not as fit subjects for "suffrage" as yourself. Answer this question before all the lady readers of the Sentinel and put yourself upon record. As for the W & W R. R. which has not taken any route, but which may yet, for aught we know, in company with the liquor traffic, go to perdition.

The late rains have improved the prospects of wheat greatly.

If the influence of the pulpit is not sufficient to direct the minds of men, or those claiming its benign benefits in questions of moral reform, then verily its efficacy as an agent for the salvation of men through the power of the gospel is lost to such an extent that marks an epoch of spiritual decline that cannot be distinguished between christianity and general worldliness.

The Census of 1890.

Next year the 11th census will be taken. At that time every farmer will be asked to give a report of the yield of the year previous, which is the present. Each farmer should keep an accurate account this year, so that when the census takers arrive they may receive the information desired, and thus the public be benefited by having accurate agricultural statistics.

Dyspepsia causes depraved blood, which, in time, affects every organ and function of the body. As a remedy for these troubles, nothing can approach Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It vitalizes the blood, strengthens the stomach, and corrects all disorders of the liver and kidneys.

A Terrific Hurricane.

A CYCLONE WREAKS ITS VENGEANCE ON BARNUM'S CIRCUS AT WILLIAMSPORT.

A furious windstorm, accompanied by thunder, lightning and rain, passed over Pennsylvania, last Friday afternoon, doing much damage throughout the state. At this place it grew so dark that lights had to be used in all the business places. But little damage was done in this vicinity, however.

When the hurricane struck Williamsport the performance of Barnum's Circus was under way, there being from 15,000 to 20,000 people under the tents.

The suddenness of the storm took the immense concourse by surprise, and a fearful panic ensued.

The only tent that did not go down was the big circus pavillion.

All the other tents were demolished in an instant, cages of wild beasts were toppled over. The herd of elephants became panic-stricken and set up a terrible bellowing, lions roared and a scene of pandemonium ensued.

The thousands of people struggled to get out of the big tent, women fainted and children screamed, many being separated from their parents. The force of the wind lifted the poles from the ground, and ropes and chains were snapped.

Fortunately, no serious accidents occurred, although the number receiving scratches and bruises was quite large.

A number of the circus performers were injured, the most serious being the following: Ichato, Japanese, head cut and body bruised; Miss Mollie Thompson, face crushed by falling pole; Master Eric, French skater, rib broken; Miss Lillie Deacon, contusion of the head; Gus Marks, ticket seller, severe scalp wounds.

Several horses were injured, a fine stallion being so badly hurt that it had to be killed. An antelope was killed by the upsetting of a cage. Manager Bailey said that the loss of property will aggregate $10,000. Nearly all the tents were badly torn.

When the menagerie tent fell it covered the elephants and the big brutes tore their way out with the aid of their tusks, pulling up the stakes to which they were fastened, They ran away from the crowd, or many people would have been trampled.

The dressing tent was blown to atoms at the first gust and the male and female performers suffered the most. Several of them were caught in a state of nudity. Scores of booths and lemonade stands were demolished.

Barnum in Bloomsburg.

Barnum was here and gone and several thousand people were made happy in having seen the greatest show on earth. Saturday last, May 11th witnessed the greatest gathering ever in Bloomsburg. The early morning train over the Bloomsburg and Sullivan railroad came in with three sections bringing over twelve hundred passengers. The next train as well as those of the Reading railroad and D. L. & W. railroad helped to swell the numbers until the hour of the parade, 10 o'clock, the streets were thronged with people. The parade forming at the depot, passed up Market to Fifth street, out Fifth to East, up East to Main, down Main to Market, down Market to the show grounds. It was certainly a magnificient display and was highly appreciated by everybody. At half past 12 o'clock the mammoth tents were opened and a grand rush made. There was a constant stream of people, until 2 o'clock, the time of the performance, every available seat was taken. The press agent estimated the number of people at over sixteen thousand, and said it was the greatest crowd they had since leaving Brooklyn. The entertainment was first-class in every particular, and was free from all vulgarities. The performing oxen, sheep, hogs and seals, were new features. Their acting was remarkable, leading people to believe that every animal can be taught to do the will of man. The twelve trained elephants, six in each ring, in their military drill proved themselves good soldiers. We cannot go into detail in the matter of trapeze, acrobatic, juggling and tight rope performances, except to announce that all were first-class and the audience highly pleased. The real Moors and Algerians with their Arabian horses, arms, costumes, tents, camels and in their acts of dancing and acrobatic performance gave a weird description of the lives of these people of the desert. After the performance there was the usual concert given, in which the Bennet family appeared, and gave exhibition of their skill with the rifle.

The evening performance was attended by about five thousand people.

NOTES.

The show trains left Bloomsburg for Scranton at midnight. In tearing down the tent there was a grand system shown, at the sound of the whistle of the engine, all the side curtains fell and in eleven minutes from that time the cars were loaded and the sections moved out of the depot.

Mr. Bailey stated to us that the report given about the damage done them at Williamsport by reason of the storm, was very much exaggerated.

The average cost of transportation for this mammoth show is about ten dollars per mile.

Over 60 people were forced to leave their homes yesterday to call for a free trial package of Lane's Family Medicine. WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, May 13, 1889.

It has been our aim for a series of years to print store news that would be universally read. Our methods, being right, have succeeded. Fresh items and true statements have won and held a reading constituency the like of which has never before been known.

Under the leadership thus created a larger truthfulness has come about, but a mass of inaccuracy in advertising still remains, which discounts the efforts of all sincere advertisers. Our interests demand unceasing warfare upon everything of the sort.

But we cannot fight in detail. Every instance in which competing goods are offered as bargains at higher prices than we charge regular cannot be challenged; when Sateens are stated to be more popular this season than ever, which every dress goods man knows to be untrue; when Mohair is called Gloriosa, or Cashmere Henrietta; when staple articles, open to all the trade, are represented as exclusive simply because of a fictitious trade-mark arbitrarily attached; when such things as these are printed we cannot pause to contradict each misstatement.

The fixed principles beneath this business are our reliance. We try to make them plain and execute them.

A trade trophy turns up this week. Wool Challis, 28½ inches wide, at 25 cents. Recently they were cheap at 37½ cents. If ever retailed less, we haven't been able to find it out.

It is a worthy lot — quantity enough, and that's one reason why we scooped the trade; palm figures in stripes and all over, with other patterns and colorings of sorts many. This is one of the cases in which she that buys last buys best.

Stop at the crowded places in the Dress Goods acre or so and one of them is sure to be where the Colored Cashmeres are. Three lots on sale there now that will be told of in other years:

50, 65, and 75 cents.

The biggest money's worth we ever knew in such goods. All the wanted shades.

It's a Gingham year. They are the most asked for of all the Wash Dress Goods. We have more than a thousand styles of them.

At 8 cents a yard, good, handsome dress styles.

Choice stripes at 10 cents.

A great variety of stripes and plaids in various colorings at 12½ cents.

We've had a word or two to say of the 25 cent Ginghams at 18c. Brand new; in twenty pretty stripes, mostly clusters. They were excellent value at 25 cents.

The regular 20 and 25 cent Ginghams are in the best of colorings — equal to Scotch, and very likely as good to wear.

You know the rest; any Gingham's lovliness or excellence that anybody has we have. And lots besides that you'll find no where else.

Plaided, striped, and plain Seersuckers (not crinkles) are in high favor. Of course we have them. 12½ cents.

Cotton Outing Cloth, 10, 12½, and 61c, is in stripes—exactly the color contrasts you'll find in some costly stuffs.

All sorts of Outing Shoes for men, The new Tennis Oxfords come at $2, $2.50, and $3; and Men's Copper and Ooze Calf Tennis, at $4. Light above and strong below; ideal in every way.

There isn't a Shoe in the lot that won't bear the closest looking at.

Tennis. Seaside and Mountain Shoes for women are in full bloom.

Picking is easier now than it will be when the seasons rush is on. Women's Tennis Oxfords, $2, $2.50, and $3.
